Excerpt: . . . as the most remarkable event of the occasion, and which voices the astonishment and pleasure it feels in the following editorial: Father Malone at a Purim Ball! What next No wonder that, as the Father says, several ignorant Williamsburghers have had their eyes opened since Thursday last. That a rigid priest should patronize a Jewish ball, in honor of a peculiar Jewish festival, is something unheard-of in this age of liberality. The sentiments expressed by the worthy Father did every credit to his head and heart, and his visit cannot but be productive of real good in the community. The good feeling then engendered continued, and as the annual reunions recurred, members of the Hebrew Benevolent Society attended the St. Patricks Day banquet, and Friendly Sons did not fail to be present at the Purim Ball and listen to the word of good cheer...
